January 2020 Newsletter

Janesville United Methodist Church

Dear JUMC Family and Friends,

Do you realize that you have an important ministry to do anytime a loved one is hospitalized? Long gone are the days when pastors could go into a hospital and look at a list of patients to see if any of their members are hospitalized. So you or a family or church member need to ask the patient if you can call me.

Your ministry is then to please call. It's the only way I will know to visit our hospitalized folk. The ministry importance of passing on potentially confidential information is true in more than just hospitalizations, as you know, but it's the best illustration.

To aid us all in our ministry with one another, I have entered our church family names and phone numbers into my cell phone. So that when you call or text me at 641-840-0119, I will see your name and know to answer. However, like many people now days, if a call is from outside our local numbers, I'll let it go to voicemail.

You can also email me at pastorayoung@gmail.com. Yes, it's my former name, but so much easier than asking everyone to change my e-address on their/your contacts.

Another important ministry for every one of us is to invite, invite, and repeatedly invite other persons to our church events and worship. A simple sentence is, “If you don't have a church home, you'd be welcome at my church. I love my church because...”

Personal invitations are the most effective way to bring new people into the church and God's Kingdom.

I know it will be tempting to stay at home under the warmth of the blankets instead of getting kids to Sunday

Pastor Audrey

School and coming to Worship on cold Sunday mornings, but I hope you won't give in to temptation. We need each other as the body of Christ for love and supportive community in winter as well as the other seasons. I'll still be coming up with Bible-based messages, the choir will be singing, the children will have their moments and the 10 am Fellowship has hot coffee with delicious cookies. And your offering to God through the ministry of our church will be appreciated.

JUMC will soon have the ability to receive your donations through the Internet and direct deposit so if you/we miss a Sunday for vacation or bad weather, we'll know the church's furnace and lights are still operable and salaries are still being paid for when we get there the next time.

Should there be hazardous winter weather for which we would be wise to cancel, know that when our local school cancels or releases students early, all our activities are cancelled that weekday & evening too. For Sundays, check your email, my Facebook at Audrey H. Westendorf or watch KWWL-TV for announcements.

I hope you had a Merry Christmas. Thank you so much for all your generous gifts. May your New Year be the best and most joyous yet!

Pastor Audrey:)

Thank you to everyone who helped to make possible the Sunday School Christmas Program on December 15, followed by the lunch served by Naomi Circle.

The readers for the morning were our "Come, Follow Me" class on the left.

The picture on the right includes most of our Sunday School students.

A Big Thank You to Jean and Melissa Eibey and all the teachers and staff too!

Lighted stained glass windows each night was our gift to the community.

A limited supply of JUMC 2020 Calendars are available to purchase for $10 each.

These calendars are made of double-sided, high-gloss, photo quality paper and contain beautiful pictures provided by United Methodist Communications Media.

Supplies are limited, so contact Rita or Barb, in the church office, if you would like to purchase one.

Thank you to everyone for the cards, prayers, flowers and other expressions of sympathy at the time of my sister Patty's (Eastman) death. A special thank you to Pastor Audrey for helping with the arrangements and in sharing her pulpit with Pastor Meg and to all who furnished food, prepared and served the meal. The very large attendance was a wonderful tribute to Patty and you handled the large group so well. The many acts of kindness were so greatly appreciated by our entire family.

Virginia and Gene Robinson

Thank you so much for allowing us to have Patty's service at your church. It was very fitting as that is where we began together as a family. We also appreciate you allowing Meg to come in and do her service.

The Eastman Family

Thank you, very much, for the gift of money at Christmas and for my retirement (after cleaning for the church for 28 years). I truly appreciated it.

Also, thanks to the UMW for the great assortment of Christmas goodies. I enjoyed all of them.

Darlene Glawe

Thank you, so much, to everyone for all the Christmas gifts: the caramels from Tom & Char, the tin full of Christmas goodies from the UMW, the gift card from the SPPRC, and all the Christmas cards and wishes. Your kindness and thoughtfulness make the job I love even more enjoyable. Thanks to all!!!

Barb

Thank You all for the Christmas Cards, goodie basket, gift cards, gifts, and Christmas Wishes.

Your thoughts and words are very much appreciated.

Sue & Larry Stapleton

THANK YOU!

Thanks, again, to the Immerzeel family for donating the kitchen stove in Cheryl's memory. The cooks speak of her often as they use it. Janesville UMC

JUMC Endowment Fund Grant Requests

It's time to start thinking about grant requests for 2020. Forms can be picked up on the table in the entryway by the church offices. Requests will need to be submitted to the PEC before February 28, 2020.

NE District UMC

Leadership Training Workshops

Sunday, January 26 from 2:30-4:45pm

FUMC, Cedar Falls.

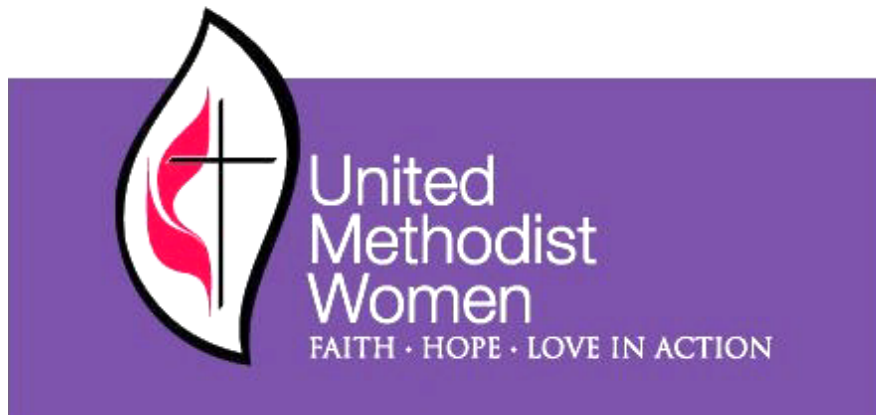

All UMs are invited, and church leaders are especially encouraged, to attend the training that pertains to their church responsibility. We're sure to hear from our D.S. Paul Wilcox, who is always inspiring and challenging.

Each Sunday LUNCH After Worship

You are invited to join the group that gathers in the fellowship area, waits for the last one who is coming along, decides where to eat and then goes "out to eat" at some nearby restaurant. Each person orders and pays for their own meal. That is unless the pastor forgets her wallet and someone has to volunteer to pay for hers too! We have lots of fun. Try it, you might like it.

Twenty-one members and 2 guests of the Janesville United Methodist Women met on December 5th in Fellowship Hall for a pot luck lunch with TatorTot Casserole as the main entree. The Union High School Carolers performed Christmas music for us, dressed in Caroler fashion attire.

A very informative devotion was presented by the Naomi Circle from the UMW program book.

Prayer concerns were shared. The missionaries from the prayer calendar to be remembered were from the South Sudan Salome Ministry.

Thank you's were received from Cedar Valley Hospice and North Star.

It was approved to renew the Response Magazine again for 2 years.

Many get-well and thinking of you cards the past month.

13 books have been purchased for the Reading Program Books and the new 2020 program book "Let Your Light Shine" is here.

The new craft booth has been installed in the office lobby area. The quilting group will be paying for the booth and the storage baskets.

We will pack Christmas boxes on Tuesday, December 10th, at 9:00 A.M. and they will be delivered that week.

Installation of officers for 2020 was presented by Pastor Audrey.

Meeting was adjourned.

Everyone is invited to read the new UMW books:

Loaded, A Disarming History of the Second Amendment by Roxanne Dunbar-Ortiz

Storming the Wall, Climate Change, Migration, Homeland Security by Todd Miller

When Others Shuddered, 8 Women Who Refused to Give Up by Jamie Janosz

Pastor Audrey Westendorf joined the United Methodist Church in Janesville in the summer as the new pastor.

She also conducts 9 am Sunday services at the United Methodist Church in Hudson.

Pastor Audrey Westendorf: I can't imagine doing anything else

By Anelia K. Dimitrova.

It's somewhat unusual to look into a pastor's soul through the prism of their life.

Perhaps because the reverends are the ones delivering the message, in times of rejoicing and in times of sorrow for others, one tends to forget that pastors, too, have to tread through the peaks and valleys of their own lives.

And yet, through it all, they are tasked with finding the inner fortitude to uplift those who lean on them in moments of weakness and hardship.

But how does one find the path to pastorship? How does one know when to embark on it, and perhaps most poignantly, how does one know that preaching the message and offering solace to strangers is their true vocation?

Many a pastor-hopeful, no doubt, has wrestled with these questions and more.

But for Audrey Westendorf, the new pastor at Janesville's United Methodist Church, that revelation came at a time of a big loss.

She was 43 years old in 1995 when her husband, Gary, then a worker at Beatrice Cheese in Fredericksburg, died of a heart attack, leaving her and their adult children, Matthew and Melissa, bereft.

In the midst of grief, compounded by the suddenness and the finality of the loss she had a revelation.

"God did a clear call to me to ministry," she said, reflecting on the moment.

The affirming message seemed to come repeatedly not only through coping with her own feelings but also through the seemingly serendipitous comments that flowed her way from her own pastor and family and friends.

At that time, she volunteered as an officer at the local church and had held various offices in the Iowa United Methodist Church. Throughout this time, a thought kept crossing her mind: "Gee I wish I could do this volunteer work full time," she recalled thinking.

Within a year of her husband's death, she was already at the pulpits at the Lenox and Mercer Center United Methodist Churches in Lenox, Iowa. She was also attending St Paul School of Theology in Leawood, Kansas.

The death of her husband was not the first time Pastor Audrey had dealt with loss. When she was 27, her mother, Leona, passed away at the age of 58.

"If you don't grieve, grief has a way of sneaking up on you months or years later," she said.

It's an advice Pastor Audrey shares with grieving families at all times, as she has experienced it herself.

But its resonance is especially magnified during the holiday season, she adds.

On Friday, Pastor Audrey comfortingly repeated that message for the grieving family of Leslie Margaret Beebe, the 48 year old editor,, writer and philanthropist whose parents George and Kathleen Beebe, grew up in Waverly, where Leslie spent many a happy summer and was laid to rest at Harlington Cemetery.

A tall woman with a girlish, somewhat prankish laugh, and an operatic, soulful singing voice, Pastor Audrey exudes calm.

What was particularly soothing about her message on Friday, during the service was its measured tone, at times light hearted, at times profound in its gravity, but always existentially relevant.

"Don't skip on the grieving, it is really necessary," Pastor Audrey said during Leslie's funeral service at Kaiser Corson Funeral Home in Waverly.

After all, as Pastor Audrey herself can attest, grief can have an enlightening and cleansing power.

In a cruel twist of fate, in 2001, her brother, Bill, who was just about to become president of the board of his United Church of Christ, rural Waverly, died in a snowmobile accident in Michigan, adding more grief to Pastor Audrey's heart.

That Audrey decided to pursue ministry in widowhood was not really that surprising, given that she grew up in the church, going to Faith United Church of Christ in Tripoli. Her dad, H.H. Hildebrandt, was a dairy and crop farmer in Bremer County, and her mom, Leona, took care of the family's four kids and the house and everything else that needed caring. Faith was an important pillar in the Hildebrandt household.

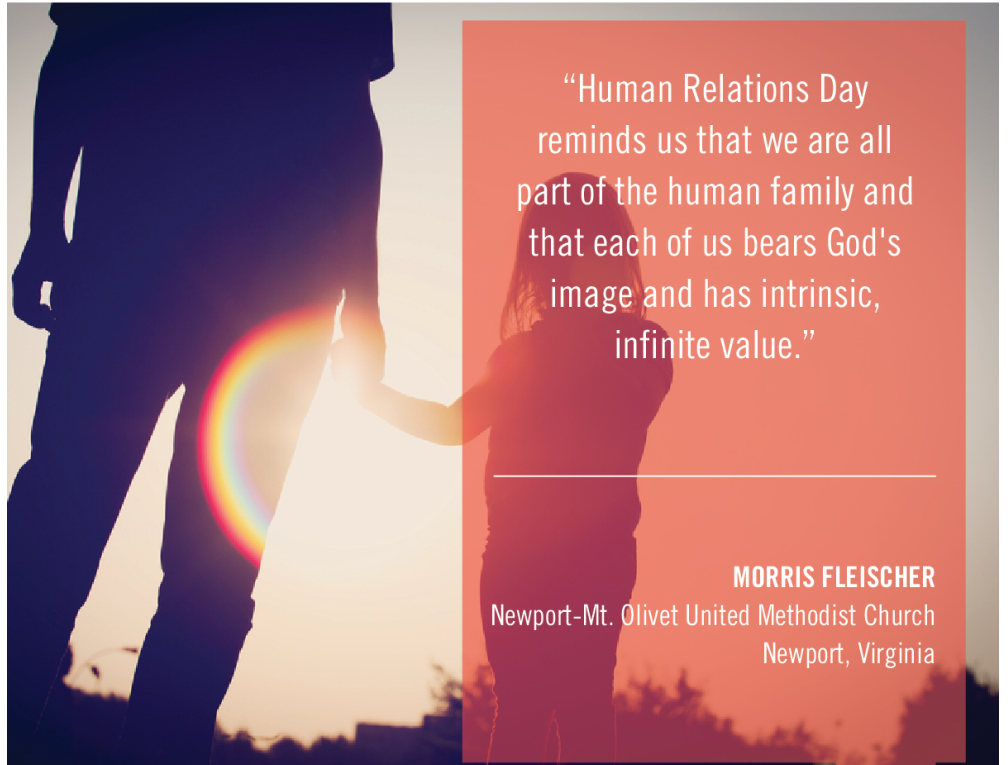

Pastor Audrey's two sisters, Janet and Joann, are retired United Methodist pastors.

Born in Sumner, graduating from Tripoli High School in 1969, Pastor Audrey said pastoring re-energized her and helped her repurpose her path.

Like many a rural pastor, she serves two congregations —in Hudson for a 9 am worship on Sundays and in Janesville for the 10:30 am service.

"The joy and the satisfaction of doing this work is indescribable. I am 68, and I could have retired, but can't imagine doing anything else," she said.

(After reading the article, Pastor Audrey said, "Oh my! Now I need to live up to this complimentary article.12/30/19 45 minutes)

Have them read through the criteria, take time and write a thoughtful essay, and submit a completed application by March 1, 2020.

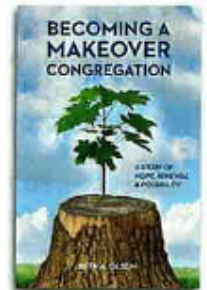

Barb has a brochure in the office if anyone is interested in more details.

A book more than ten years in the making is finally coming to life. Years ago, when I left the call I had at Janesville, I wrote down a number of the stories from that time so that I would have a record of the transformation, healing and renewal we shared in at that congregation. Approximately five years ago, I took those stories off the shelf, read through them, and realized that the time had come to get serious about pulling things together for a book.

In 2015, I sent the manuscript off to a small publishing house. The book was accepted by the publishing house, but then got "stuck in production," as they say in the business, and it sat there with CSS Publishing for a while.

Finally, in the summer of 2019 the book was published. I've done a soft roll-out with colleagues and friends, but now in November, the public will have a chance to get their copy.

Two book signings are in the works. The first one will be at St. Timothy on Sunday, Nov. 10, from 1:30-3 p.m. Cost will be $15. The second will be Saturday, Nov. 16, 1:30-3 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and School in Waverly. Snacks and beverages will be available in both places.

What's the book about? Here are a few chapter titles as teasers: "From Snowforts to Glowsticks," "The Body of Christ, Living Care Packages," "Outside the Comfort Zones: Stewardship and Other Lessons."

The "elevator speech" is this: God is always willing to match a congregation's enthusiasm for mission and ministry. That was certainly the case at Janesville, where they faced a future that was pretty bleak.

They didn't know, for example, if they would see one another from week to week because they weren't sure the church would be open the following week. But following the healing interim ministry of a husband-wife duo that loved the congregation back to life, they reached the point where they were ready to call a pastor for a regular call.

My family and I were fortunate to be the ones called to serve at Messiah. During the course of our 9.5 years together, we did some remarkable things together. But the time to leave came, and so we stepped aside. The book talks about that, too.

The lessons I learned from "the little congregation that dared" have stayed with me all these years. I wrote the book because I thought other congregations might be able to learn from what we, with God's guidance and persistent belief in us, were able to do. Some of those lessons have informed my time at St. Timothy, too.

~ Pastor Beth
